THE GUERILLA CAPTAIN ROLLA .- A COPTOspordent, well acquainted with the ficte, writes us a trief bistory of the gneritle Captain Rolla, who was captured, with his gang, by the Grayeon county Home Guards, some days ago. Rolla was formerly a c'e-k in a shoe-store in this city. Some time in the first part of May last he went to Breckingidge sonnty, and remained there some time, with no apparent o'j ct in view. Tho citizens presamed that he was acting in the capacity of a rebel apy, collecting and forwarding information to the rebel raiders, Generals Forrest and Morgan. After the defeat of Morgan et Cynthiana, Rolla suddenly disappeared from the neighborhood, and turned up a gnerilla Captain nuder Walter Teylor, at the time that chief swept through the lower counties of the State. All trace was lost of his movements for some time, when he again appeared in Breckinridge county, but this time he wee at the head of a robber-gang. He plundered the neighborhood and waged a petty waifare upon peaceeble, unarmed citizens. On the 13th inst., Rolla entered Oloverport having twenty-five men under his command. Jesse Boerd, Frenk Holmes, and a man named Persons joined the gang In the vicinity of the town. In the evenlng, the gnerillss started for Hardensburg, but, meeting a man who informed them that the citizens of that place were locking for them and prepared to give them a warm reception, they concluded change their course. Rolls remarked, that lid espiture the place, he would burn the d town. They halted for the night at the honso of a Mr. Hewkins on the Stephensport road. In the morning they were early in the såddles expaged in stealing horses, &c. One readers are already familiar with their capture Leyond Green river by the Grayson Guards It is though that Rolla was one of the highwaymen that robbed the bank at Hardinsborg, ien the 25 h of last July, of $4000 His career in crime has been brief, but marked with all the excess common to a cunning knave and a hardened villain. On the 26th instant, a gang of sixwenguerillae passed through the lower part of Breckinridge county, on their way toward the Cumberlend liver. They were nuder the command of the chiefs Gray and Tuylor, who stated thet the band had been organized in Jafferson county, ten days before. Gray claimed to have served three years in the rebel army, a portion of the time in Stonewall Jackson's corps in Virginia. Fifty of the Grayaun Gnards were on tho trail of the gnerillas, and were pushing forward in vigorous pursuit. Munnua.-The Nashville Union states that a most atroclons murder wee committed en Fridey on the Northwestern railroad, 45 miles from that city. An old gentleman, whose name was not learned, and his wife, were found in their own hones bearing the marks of bleed; crime. He was about 60 years of age, a former resident of Nashvilie, an owner of blooded horses, and a man of considerable weelth. Upon approaching the house, the body of the old geutleman was found lying apon hie face, a large stab in the back, and, upon turning him over, a lerge number of stabs were visable upon his chest, and his throat was guehed in three places. A pocket-knife was found neer his hand with rke of blood upon the blade. Entering house, a trail of blood guided the men to the bed, where the body of the woman-epparently a women of 30 yeers of age-was found lylng across the bed, her throat cut from ear to cer, and two large gashes noon ber forehead. A large butcher-knife, covered with blood, was found lying near her head. A German name! Bloomstein who had bought a tract of land of the old gentleman for the timber upon it, and who had a number of wood-choppers at work there, was arrested on susplcion of being the marderer. Bloomstein said that he left the house about eight o'clock in the evening, and in about an honr a neighbor came to him and told him of the murder. He immediately went to the honse, a number of his hands going with hlm. Upon vlewing the scene, two of his bands arrested Bloomstein and handed hlm over to Captain Van Scheick, the conductor, who brought him to Nashville and geve him over to the Prevost Marchal. A Lieutenaut wes left there to investigate as far as possible all the facts.

Museum. The Manchester Guardian gives natinators, the lamented J. W. Jacobs, and the following parti ulars about these care. and their conteuts: The locality of the caves is the departs ment of Dordogne, in the province of Perigord. It is chiefly on the banks of tributaries of the river Dordogne (which reaches the sea a lit le north of Bordeaux) that the caverns are found. In the valley of the Vezere, one of the principel of those tr butarles, are sevral caverus, one of which, that of Eyzies, was bought last year by Mesers. E. Lartet and portnieuts, and, with a generosity worthy all praise, they have sent specimeus of the coms in Europe and elsewhere. In the sway Mr. Plant received, about a fortnight ago, for the Salford Royal Museum, a slab weighng ebout five hundred weight. It wes broken in the journey into two parts, each of which had been mounted under e glass shede. The shaking it had received on the way rubbed off a quantity of debria weighing about twenty pounds, end this Mr. Plant has carefully washed and sifted, and separated etem from atom. His patience has been fully rewarded, as he has found articles of the deeprst interest. Before entering into de-tails it mey be well to say that by far the largest number of bones found in the caverns of Parigord are those of the rejudeer, an acihisto ic period south of the northern shore of the Baltic. It is impossible even to ap preximate to the antiquity of an age so re mote; but Sir Charles Lyell, in his "Antiquity

These tokens consist of a compect mass of earth, charcoal, flint wespens and tools, bones, needles, &c., which chiefly by the action of the calcareous droperate, or Breccia, es it is technically styled, has formed en ertificial floor to the cave of various thicknesses, from three inches to ten inches. The practice of the ancient inhubltants, of throwing down the bones and other remnants of their feasts upon the floor of the cave in which they continued to dwell, receivee illustration from the description given Hans Egede, of the habits of the Esquimaux Ho says their huts were veritable charnelhouses, heaped up with fat and the raw flesh of memals and fish, which together with the

The conclusion deduced f om the exploration of these caves, is that a human rece inhabited the caves in the region since celled Perigord, at the same time as the reindeer, the auroch, and other animale which are now only found in extreme latitudes; thet this people had no knowledge of tho uso of metals, their only arms and tools being either of broken and unpolished flints, or of bones and horne of animals; that they lived upon the produce of the chase, and by fishing; that they had no domesticated animal, ueither dog nor cat, else some portione of the bones and elnewe that have been found would have been eaten, and some remains of be dog would have been discovered; and that they were clothed in skine, which were sewu with bone needles and string made out of the einews and tendons of the legs of their

TUESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1864.

FAUL E. SHIPMAN, Matters:

Brigadier-General Hobson's late expedition into the "Department of Sonthwestern Kentn.ky," as de gnated in general orders from the rebel Celonel Adam Johnson's headquarters in Webster and Union counties, was a mest apportune movement, for Adam's order was being enforced rigidly at every domi. ! , and wherever the rebal Lordes could p nonate. On the 16th inst. General Hob on and escont lef Elizabeth'own for Lichfie d, Graysen county, where detachments of the 26ta, 35th, 40th, and 48th Kentneky mounted infantry were concentrated for a combined expedition against Johnson. The next day the several detachments moved in the direction of Madisenville, by the way of Hartford and Calhonu, arriving at the latter place on the 18.h inst., after a march over very mnddy roads and smid Incessant torrents of rain. On the 19th some detention was experienced in crossing Green river, which was necessarily slow, on account of the | knowledge a loss of thirty-five men in killed incapacity of the floats, which were so small and wounded at the battle of Coosa, including that but few could cross at one time. It | nse of arms on the battle-field, and the results was expected at this point that a force of ef his expedition were much more satisfactory tebels would contend with the Federals for the possession of the town. Dae precautions, the war. therefore, were taken by Col. Burge, commanding detachments of the 26th and 48th Kentucky, in surrounding the place and picketing it so strongly that no one could escape. When all was prepared, a dash was made by Col. B. at the head of his column into the town, but to his regret he found none but quiet citizens eccupying the place. Here onr forces breathed for a few honrs, and Gen. Hebson went energetically to work to find the exact whereabouts and movements of his prey. The only and most reliable information had of Adam, placed him at Brnce's Mills, thirteen miles northwest of Madison-

mand proceeded on a double-quick, hoping to find and engage the gnerilla chieftain at Brnce's Mills, but at Nebo, after two hours' march, Gen. Hobson received authentic intelligence that Adam had ekedaddled during the night and fled toward the Cumberland river, pressing through Providence, where the remnant of Wooodward's command, led by Msj. Chenoweth, joined him, subsequent to Woodward's mortal defeat by the Home Guards at Hopkinsville. General Hopson immediately advanced in the direction of the enemy and industriously set out fer Adam's trail, he then being about sixteen hours in advance of our column. At about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, some six miles from Charleston, Hopkins county, his trail was struck with a gain of one bonr and a half upon his rear. The course the rebels were taking could not have suited Gen. Hobson better, es they were going blindly into the trap that had been set for them, in the person of Majer Tyler, of the 52d Kentucky, which regiment was acting in concert with, and constituted part of Gen. Hobson's command. This regiment, Lieutonant-Colonel Johnston commanding at Princeton, was gnarding all the crossings on the Princeton and Hopkinsville pike, to prevent the escape of Adam and his gang, should our forces drive them that way. At one of these crossings, and the most important, Major Tyler, with 150 men, was picketed. Early on Sunday, the 21st, Adam Johnson endesvored to surprise the Major and his gallant band by a bold and fearless charge of his whole command, but the sangnine strength of Adam was soon hurled back with an inglorious and ignominions defeat, having been repulsed with a loss of three killed, thirteen captured, and quite a unmber serionsly wonnded, and Col. Adam Johnson among the latter by a ball from a Ballard rifle, passing in at the left temple and out at the corner of the right cye, in its passage buisting the eye-balls and destroying his sight. Major Tyler most gallantly defended his position with a loss of bnt one killed and fifteen captured.

ville and three miles distant from Nebo.

Early in the morning of the 21st the com-

Pursuit wes not made until General Hobson came up about 7 o'clock in the evening, when Lientenant-Colonel Johnston, of the 52d Kentucky, having fresh and unfatigned horses, was put in the advance and pursued the enemy to Canton, on the Cumberland. where he came np with them when attempting to make a crossing, and attacked them about daylight on Monday of last week, with a portion of the 83d Illinois battery in advance. The Illineians bravely pressed torward and cap'ured four lines of their pickets without fi.ing a single shot, the gnards being all asleep, and surrendering in the most surprised style imaginable. When the attack commenced, only about ninety of the guerilles, now led by the noterious Sypert, Adam's successor, had crossed over. The attack was such a complete surprise that many jumped into the river and were drowned, in attempting to swim to the other shore of the Cumberland. The fight was pressed vigorously by Lientenant-Colonel Johnston, but the rebels, seeing it was neeless to stand, took advantage of a heavy fog that dersely clonded the earth, and about three hundred made their escape below the town, where they reached the hills. They were pursued by the 26th and 48th Kentucky, nuder Colonel Burge, to the left of Cadiz and then in a circle around Cadiz to a point leading into the Lafayette and Linton road. Information of their course had been sent to General Hobson, who despatched the 40th Kentucky, Colonel Trne, to intercept them at Linton, and Colonel Johnston, with the 52d Kenincky, in their rear. Beyond this point we have no further definite intelligence, as these particulars were forwarded to ns from Cadiz on the 23i. The parsuit would be vigorously pushed, and wo are greatly in hopes that Sypert has been overtaken and his entire band captured, for his horses were broken down, and their speed was getting very slow. It will be impossible for them to cross the Cumberland nnless they break up in small bands and swim lt. At Canton General Hobson enstained no loss; one man was slightly wonnded. Thirteen of the gnerillas were killed, among them, the prisoners say, were Adjutant Weller and Major Chenoweth. Ba tween 75 and 100 prisoners fell into our hands. including two Captains, one of whom was Captain Davis, late of the 17th Kentucky in fantry, Col. Stout, formerly Colonel McHen ry's regiment. Of conrse the latter will obtain his just allotment of powder or hemp, as a deserter and apostate. One hundred and torty horses and horse equipments were also captured at Canton by the 83d Illinois and 521 Kentncky. It seems to be the general opinion that if the fight had not been vigoronsly pressed at Canton, until all the forces under General Hobson had come up, that the entire rebel force could have been captured. Col. Adam Johnson was made a prisoner of war at the honse of Mr. Wiley Simms, in Trigg county. His condition being such that he could not be removed, he was, at his own request, paroled to report in person as soon as pessible to the officer commanding the United States forces at Henderson. His wound is a serious one, though his recovery is not Impossible. Too much praise cannot be awarded to Gcn. Several clubs have been formed in our ity, on the mntnal insurance system, to proure substitutes in case any of the members arc drafted. Some of the radical papers and substitute-brokers at the eastward have made furions attacks npon these cinbs, but we agree with the Journal of Commerce that there is no more cowardice or moral recreatey i ffecting a nutual insurance against the draft before that event comes off than in buying a enha itute after the dra'i made li, man locanot will to go to the war, . . . a measure of wise precontion to 's reeg in 'that coingoney if he can in so take onable rate. The Washington Uhronicle, the Administration organ, says: "There are many reasons which induce us to think that it wenld be wisc, as well as economical, on the part of the General Government te go to the very verge of liberality in its offers of terms to the rebels." But one part of the "General Government," which is Congress, goes one way, and another part of that "General Government," which is the Prosident, goes another, while its third and enperior par, the Judicisry, is never consulted, but its functions are in abeyance under the suspension of the habeas corpus and the military laws. The only verge toward which the Ohronicle would lead the country is the verge of insanity.

Wade and Davis are bitterly denounced by the radical Republicans. In Baltimere, a city which has been kept in subjection to the Federal anthorities solely by the force of bayoneis, they are called arrogant and presumptucns, and their conduct is said to be "deserving only of the most supreme contempt of the honest messes of Baltimore." The honest masses of Baitimore, of mob town, of the home of Plng-Uglies! That is superbly rich, pictnresque, and effective!

How is recrniting getting along, and how rapidly are substitutes offered? There are but a few days remaining before the draft is ordered, and with the proper exertions wo can fill our quota, and snap our fingers at the Provost Marshal. We have all along thought that Kentncky would escape the conscription, and it rests with onr citizens to decide whether our opinions were prophetic.

The Atlanta papers say that many of the shells thrown into the city have texts of Scripture fastened to them. In addition to this we know that Sherman has been throwing missals in the same direction for some tlme.

NETT AT OWEN BORO-FIENDISH ATROCKries.-On Sa'nrday afternoon last, Jako Bonrett, the notorious guerilla, at the head of | wat = the return to the seventeen men, dashed iuto Owensboro, and, as they tode down the 2 rest, fired in a rackless manoer at every person that exposed bimself to view. The scoundiels exhibited a bao both the face. The damage is neartlessness and depravity of feeling worth, of devils and fiends. The citizens were insulted, sod forced to fice for their lives. Shots were even fired into the open doors of the different storerooms. Cant. Walters of the Third Kentocky cavalry, was made a pricener in he own sai lot down by the be id blee in ber i nemerieseses viola bl ed For some time Owens' are a garrisoned by a tattalion of pegro trop 3, but on Friday they were withgrawn from the post, ten being left to guard the whatfboat against guerilla attacks. Bennett had received correct in-fermation of this movement, and, coarging down upon the hoat, he commanded the squid of negroes to surrender. They were frightened by the imposing front presented by the thicking hand, and at once laid down their arms. An Indiscrimioate slanghter of the blacks then commenced. Seven were deliberately shot to death, the other three taking refugo in the hold of the hoat, and escaping the venthen plnodered of light articles of value and set on fire, the dead bodies of the murdered ucgroes still stretched upon the blocd stained deck. The boat burned rapidly, and Bennett left word, that, if any of the citizens attempted to extinguish the flames, he would return and burn the town. The robber then placed himself at the head of his gaog and started to leave the place. In the subnrbs of the boro a gentleman named Senate was captured and robbed of $300 in money. A man named Reed was also made prisoner, and relieved of his watch and porsa. Beanett left in the direction of Lewisport. As soon as the citizens learned that he had departed from the town, they gathered around the wharfboat, and went earnestly to work to It the fire. They were successful, and eded in saviog the wrack. On examining the hold, the three negro ldiers were found to be crooched io the arkest corner, and they were rescued from neir perilons si uation. I'earing the guerillas might return, the dark trio were placed in a kiff, and sent across the river to Indiaoa for safety. A son of Mr. Stont, a bright little boy, is missing from the town. It is presamed that he was oither shot or drowned by the scoundrels. The lose sustained by the borning of the wharfhoat is estimated at $1,-00. As the steamer Palestine came up the river yesterday, in passing Owensboro, everything was found to be quiet. At Lewisport i was learned that Bennett and his gang had paid that town a visit on Sunday, doing ro damage. Hawcsville had received more distinguished attention, as coveral of the stores were broken open and plondered. On Sunday night, the thieving, maraudiog gang camped four miles from Cloverport. Yes erday morning the noted guerilla-hunter Capt Jim. Willon, with twenty-five men, was on the war-path, and hat four hours behind Bennett and his robber gang. Wilson was pressing forward with all the energy possible, and it was thought that he would encoved in overtaking the cutlaws. We wish him a hearty God-speed. This last exploit of Bennett's is the most fiendish of his dark carcer Before it all of his other acts in crime fail and dwindle into utter iosignificance. No punishment can be too severe for the miscreants guilty of this inhuman outrage. We trnst that Capt. Wilson will capture the last one of them, and that their eighteen bedies will be suspended from the limb of every stalwart tree by the roadside, a errible warning of the swift vengeance due enormons crimes. Wo shudder at the ght of blood, yet feel that we could gloat on the blonched carcasses, and, plunging to the darkness of the vaudalic age, repeat, reogeance is minc!" A HOME-BICK GUEBILLA -Two guerilles captored by the Grayson Home Guard were eceived at the office of Capt. Jones on Snaday night from Bowling Green. One of them, green, home-sick-looking specimen of hunanity, says that he wants to take the oath and go home-probably to toy with his motier's apron strings. The precious baby darling states that he had just joined the guerilla band when captured, and that he has now been away from home more than one week. The booby whines like a sick kitten to be allowed the privilege of returning to his parental roof. Wo should not worder if ho was released to day and sent to his home on the wings of steam, but that he would great the place as a stranger, long wanderiog from his native shore, and that he would find the samo cow grazing in the fields, the same pigs equealiog in the pen, the same dog growling at the gate, and the same cut dozing in the corner. Poor boy, dear creature, sweet nnocence, wo fear that several weeks will elapse hefore ho will be granted the privilego of visiting his home, and there witness the mighty changes that have taken place! Ho thinks that he was never intended for a soldicr, and so do we. It is a great plty for him that he over left his mother's apronstriogs, He joined the gnerilla band, thought to gain a warlike reputation on short notice, as "gotbled np" in his first raid, placed gnard and brought to Lonisville, where dy called him a scoundrel and a fool. ound no sympathy, was refused permisto go home, and was thrown into prison, re he now languishes in all of his terrible ness. Boo hool

GUERILLAS REPULSEO AT TAYLORSVILLE .-last Sunday night, a band of twenty-five ilias, under Capt. Pratt, made a dash at plorsville, but were surprised to find the well defended by the Anderson county lome Guards. A brisk little sklrmish ensued, nd the gnerillas wero frightened into a hasty treat. We nuderstand that no casualties curred on either sido. Pratt expected to nd the town defencoless, and thought to luoder it in an easy manner, awing, by areats, all attempts at resistance into comlete subjection. He was badly deceived in his calculations, and much surprised at the bold, decided stand taken by the Home Guards. He left the town with a flea in his ear, and it would not surprise us if it tickled m fcr several days to como.

LETTER OF EUROPEAN TRAVEL.

LONDON, June 27, 1864. enccese'ul experiment in subterranean locomotion. This road traverses the city beneath roadways and houses, having large and welllighted stations at intervals, so that passengers can easily find their way to and from the city above. This is probably but the beginning of extensive improvements yet to be made in this di ection. It is a noteworthy thing in reference to all these great works of internal improvement, that they are constructed with a selidity and expensiveness which are perfectly astonishing. It is difficult to see how the companies can afford to bny their way through the heart of London, and to build at such an immerse cost.

In passing along Fleet street, which is one of the Broadways of London, I saw the foundations of a splenell railread bridge, which is to cross that street within pistol shot of St. Paul's. London is persecuted by railway projects even more than New York. I was assured that the proposals for railroads in London which were laid before this Parliament contemplated the use of an amount of epace which would equal one-quarter part o the entire city l One of these plans proposed to tunnel beneath the Religious Tract Society In Paternester Row, and even under St. Penl's Cathedrall Iu one case it fell out that a single piece of property lay in the track of surveying partles visited the promises in the same day. Von Bismark makes no secret of which mails are forced through a subterrahis desire to consolidate the Prnesian donear tube from one district to another, in a number of the supply. Sales at 20000.

The supply is an advancedd. We quote very brief space of time. The atmosphere is first churned in a vast reservoir by steam power, and being thus concentrated, is suddenly admitted into the tube, forcing all before it. It is proposed to have the London mails distributed according to the postal sections on the trains as these approach the city, and on arriving, each mail is to be shot through to its place at once. And besides this, an experiment is being made at the Orystal Palace grounds of propelling passanger cars by the same principle. Think of being shot through a huge pipe, underground, in two minntes, from the Battery to Harlem! A still greater subterranean enterprise is going her. But thex all this involves the destruction on in London in what are called the lutersening sewers. You will remember the excitement which occurred by London a few years ago, about the impurities of the river Thames, and how Parliament was almost driven ont of St. Steven's Palace, by the stench of the river, which runs right by the these two Powers shall come to perceive that edifice. Immeuse quantities of the chloride of lime were dumped into the river to sweeten it and to prevent infection. This is still done in the bot season. At that time all the sewers of London poured their contents into the Thames. This, of course, could not be endured. To remedy this, three immouse intercepting sawers are being constructed on each side of the river, at n depth on the north side of some sixty test below the puvement, so as to drain all the conduits and cess-pools of the oity. These vast artories are to convey the Impurities of the city to a point on the river ten or twenty miles below London. It is intended to have a reservoir in which the drainings can be confined at will, so that they may be let out with the chbing tide, and be carried quite into the ocean. These great sewers will require six years to complete, and will cost one hundred millions of dollars. It is easy to eeo that some such | Ragland has lost her influence; Austria is applan as this is the only way in which the Thames can over be made sweet and healthy. | the cabinet; and the attention of the liberal But how few would think of this or ap- party among the Prussians has been for tho preciate the vasiness of the enterprise as one | moment turned from the schemes of domestic which promises to be all-controlling by and aggrandizement, which the Kirg bas long been by in making London habitable and healthful. London is nover lired of seeing equipage and splendor. The Queen held a "Drawing Room" the other day, the reception being made by the Prince of Wales and his Royal Lady. The streets were crowded in the vicinity of St. James's Palace. The clogance in dress, carriage, harness, horses, liveries, and | themselves together, first according to the all that sort of thing, is strange enough to re- grand divisions of Protestant and Catholic, puplican eyes.

In the Royal Academy of Arts, I saw lately two danghtere and a young son of the Queen. They were busily looking at the paintings in company with some noble gentlemen. They carried themselves very quietly and charmingly. They were of course the observed of all observers, while they acted as If they did not know it. There is something very pleasing in the devotion of the English around the royal family all the revercapable of feeling. I confess to being a very sturdy and incorrligible republican. I almost smiled the other day when I read that this layer feeling in the water of the Save on the body after the string in the water of the Save on the body and the third was the last either hand of seem of the Papacy. When I was in a vast assembly recently, not less than ten thousand being present, the chol: sang "God cave the Queen." It was in the Orrstal Palace, where hats were worn, and, at the first sound of the tnas, every man rose and nucovered. I could not help doing the same thing. And I was conscious, moreover, of having in my hosom the same wirm love fr the idea and the fees of Gayernment ir our free R publis Thie is some thing which the subject of a kingdom cannot understand. and that the only thing that one preven' their not put in force, then there is nothing to himder the "gobbling up" of the doom. ! S.ate. The great Powers have but to come to an naderstanding among themselves, to cause the disappearance of Portugal, Be gium. Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Turkey, Greece, Switzerland, the minor States of Germany, and even Italy, from the map of Barops. We ere, therefore, not surprised to find that a movement is gaining ground in G rmany having for its object the grouping tothree railroad schemes, and three different gether of the smaller States, in order to oppose them as a golid confederation to the amthe Germanic confederation. It is, indeed, full Oldenburg, Hanover, and the small duchics lying between the Eibe and western Prussia. This is but a natural ambition for Prussia, as a glance at the map will show, and the acquisition of Holstein is a step toward the accompliehment of this design. To make Prussia what she ought to be-the leading Protestant Power of continental Europe-sheshould have Saxony, all the Hesees, and the duchies north of the Main, the States we have above enumerated, and ull Holland east of the Rhiue. France might then safely be allowed to appropriate Belgium and the countries west of the Rhine, for Prussia would ho a counterpoise to of a score of small States on either side of the great German river. And In fact, as regards the small States of Germany, their independence hurgs upon a thread; it is but the rivalry between Austria and Prussia which delays the action of the fatal shears. The day on which neither of them can absorb the other, and that it is to their common interest to share between them the enpremacy over Germany, will be the last of the members of the confederation. The most considerable of them, such as Bavaria, Hanover, and Saxony, may perhaps preferve for some time longer the appe rance f autonomy, but their ultimate absorption into one or other of the two great Germanio ls nuder serious discussion. The recent triumph of the Penssians over the Danes in the field, and over Austria and the Diet In the cabinet, has engendered in the mind of King William, and of his enccessful and andacious Minister, Von Biemark, the design of perpotuating the enpremacy of Prussia. Everything is favorable to it. France has isolated herself; parently nnable to cope with her astnte ally in laboring to carry out, and drawn to the external aggrandizement of the kingdom, which at present is but an assemblage of States impertooracy on horseback. It is notable, Indeed | feetly knit together, without solidity and that at this time may be seen five hundred la- without frontiers. Anstria covers the whole dies and gentlemen, Dukes and Duchesses, sonthern portion of Germany, in order either to assure to herself the pussession of her non-German States or to comocusate herself for By the side of this roadway is a promenade | their loss. She will thorefore be inclined to side with Prassia in her designs against the confederation. Then, again, the modern tendency of the German mind is toward unity, and the majority of Germans would prefer seeing their fatherland divided into two great States to remaining, as it is, split no into a origin of this most extraordinary name, and multitude of weak principalities. Lastly, the most satisfactory explanation is that it is there is that other more general movement, which impels not merely the Germans but ail liberal and progressive minds, because it is the movement of civilization, the manifest tendency of which is to reconstitute the Estionalities of Europe, and to group humanity in large masses, in order, sooner or later, to effect the great nnity of races. In this view all the German epeaking families should group represented respectively by Pruesia and Anstria; and when that shall have been accomplished, the way will be cleared for their final and complete unification. All this will be the work of time-perhaps of long periods of time; but one must voluntarily shut one's eyes to the light not to porceive the efforts of this movement in past events, and in those which are taking place in our days. France has taken centuries to reconstitute her origito the Queen and her family. It is a foeling | nal Gaulish nationality, and even now she has stronger than loyalty. It is affection.
